Dasara is here so are works on dark Ring Road stretch

Work begins for underground cabling; tender for lights, switches yet to be called

Trenches being dug to lay underground power cables on Outer Ring Road this morning.

Mysuru, Sept. 21 (RK&BCT)- Dasara festival is here and as in the past, the buzz around a dark and dangerous Ring Road can be heard again loud and clear. The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) wants to illuminate the 42.5-km stretch for 'tourist and passenger convenience.' Years after shifting blames and passing the buck between the MCC, Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) and the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI), the ball is now in the MCC and MUDA's courts. While the MUDA will fund the electrification, the MCC will maintain it and pay the electricity bill.

The work order to lay underground cables was issued yesterday and the works have begun this morning. Cabling tender is worth Rs. 4.64 crore and the tender has been handed over to Bengaluru-based Geetha Electricals.

Cabling works have begun from Manipal Hospital Junction on Bengaluru-Mysuru Highway and the workers are laying cables towards the Hanchya-Sathagalli side.

Insulated wires will have to be laid as the existing wires have been eaten by rodents in the 42.5-km long six-lane Ring Road. These wires were laid by MUDA way back in 2014 before the road was handed over to the NHAI. Once the rodent bite-proof wires have been laid, the supply will be restored and the cables will take power to the overhead bulbs.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

There are many questions and apprehensions about the introduction of cheetahs into India more than 75 years after they became extinct in the country. Prime Minister Narendra Modi released eight cheetahs brought in from Namibia into the Kuno National Park in Madhya Pradesh as part of an attempt to build up a native population of the graceful big cats in the coming years. The Prime Minister said the cheetahs are the nation's guests and they will be well taken care of. Conservation efforts are always welcome as they attempt to preserve or restore biological diversity and balance.

But the challenges are different for different species in different environments. Conservationists are divided on the viability of and even the need to bring the cheetahs back into the country. Many experts believe that the attempt to restore the cheetahs is a vanity project and the efforts should be for the conservation of many other species which are very vulnerable. There is a strong view that some lions in Gujarat's Gir forests should have been relocated to Kuno Park, instead of the cheetahs. Kuno had been earmarked for that too. The Gir forests cannot support the number of lions it has now. The concentration of a single species in one area is not advisable as the animals become vulnerable to infections and other risks. The cheetah project is an experiment and will be watched keenly with hope for its success.

Marble Berry, world's brightest living thing

Bambari: The fruit of Pollia condensata or the marble berry, is a plant that grows in the forests of Central Africa which has been scientifically recognized as the brightest organic substance in nature.

The elusive marble berry plant grows up to about meter-tall and sprouts clusters of up to 40 small, impressively-shiny fruits. Seeing a marble berry up close, one could swear it was coated in a layer of metallic blue paint. Scientists, who, after conducting a series of tests, concluded that the fruit of Pollia condensata was not only the brightest fruit in the world, but the brightest organic thing.

The marble berry remains impressively bright for decades, or even longer because it doesn't owe it's coloring to pigments, but to a unique type of cell structure that reflects light in a unique way to create this stunning visual effect.

Indonesia's upside-down coffee

Aceh: Kupi Khop is a unique type of coffee served in an upside-down glass on a glass plate and sipped through a straw. For obvious reasons, it's also known as Indonesian upside-down coffee.

The unique serving method alone makes it worth a try, as even if you don't enjoy coffee. Kupi Khop consists of coarsely ground robusta coffee brewed in a glass that is then turned upside down on a glass saucer. A plastic straw is then used to gradually extract the coffee from the glass without it spilling uncontrollably.

Kupi Khop has been officially declared an Intangible Cultural Heritage (WBT) of West Aceh Regency and its history can be traced back centuries.

REALLY...?

- Leech therapy was used since ancient times for purifying blood and curing any diseases. People believed that getting blood drawn by leeches will help them get healthier due to the medical properties in its saliva.
- Although surgeons developed more sophisticated treatments, the 17th and 18th centuries were still rife with all forms of blood-letting treatments. One of the most interesting (and possibly dangerous) practices was leeching.
- Since leeches carry blood ten times their body weight, they were used to drain blood from a patient's body until they fainted.

Unhygienic roadside eateries mushrooming across city

Sir,

Of late, in every locality of Mysuru, by the side of main roads and Ring Road, mobile eateries and roadside canteens operating in temporarily built stalls have come up like mushrooms sprouting overnight on rain soaked soil. Though these eateries prepare spicy food and offer them at an affordable price for people, the area or place where they put up these eateries are very filthy and added to it are the dust and dirt generated by the moving vehicles.

The food is supplied in a very unhygienic manner. Now with Dasara round the corner and many people visiting Mysuru from surrounding villages and towns, the danger of epidemic of cholera etc., would be imminent.

Hence, I request the civic authorities concerned to go around on inspection and order closure of unhygienically operating roadside eateries or ask them to maintain cleanliness.

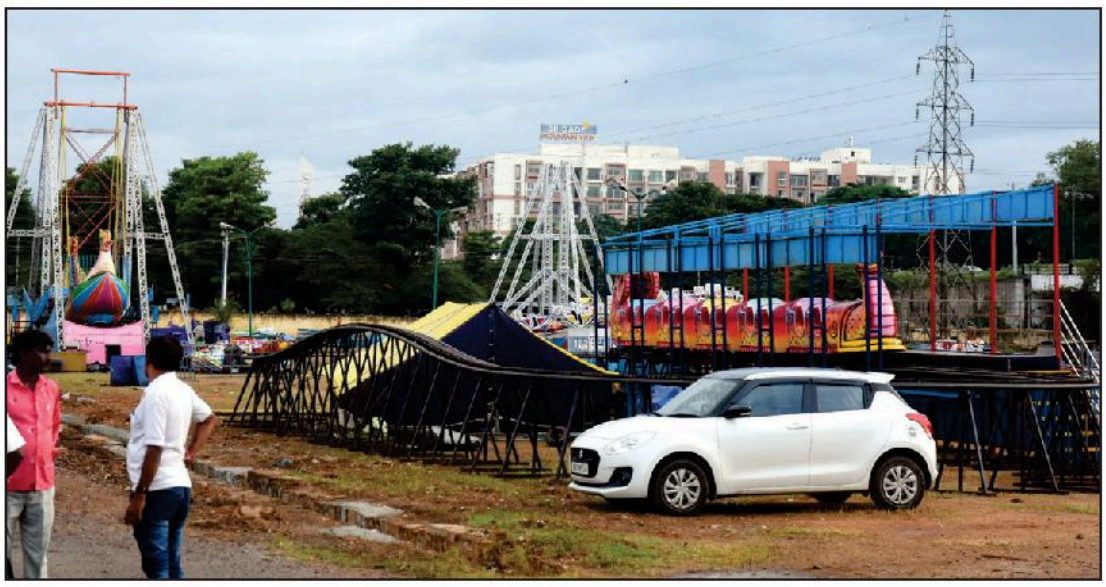
Blame it on rain, Dasara Expo set to open in a jiffy

- Entry fee: Adults - Rs. 30, children - Rs. 20
- Exclusive app to view many attractions



Mysuru, Sept. 21 (SBD&BCT) - Rain has played a spoilsport for the Karnataka Exhibition Authority (KEA) on its plan to open the annual Dasara exhibition, which is a major attraction of the Dasara festivities, about 15 days before the inauguration of the Dasara festival this year. The show will open on Sept. 26 evening, coinciding with the Dasara inauguration.

Despite the common grouse of tourism stakeholders that apart from the Dasara procession and a few tourist attractions in and around Mysuru there is no permanent place in the city compelling tourists to stay back, the Dasara Exhibition fails to open on time. When the Dasara exhibition is inaugurated on the first day of the festival every year, empty stalls have been greeting the visitors.

The annual show, held at Doddakere Maidan, is a place for artisans drawn from across India to display and sell their exquisite products. It is also a place to exhibit Government schemes and programmes to make people socially aware.

Though the KEA spruces up the exhibition campus with necessary infrastructure, vendors and Government Departments take their own sweet time to set up stalls. Every year, the KEA claims that it has done enough groundwork to invite Departments and vendors to open their stalls during Dasara, there are hardly any vendors to set up stalls during the festival.

Earlier, Dasara Exhibition would be actually ready when the Dasara celebrations began. Over the years, this practice stopped. This year, however, the exhibition will open on the day of Dasara inauguration. "Rain has dampened our plans to open the exhibition 20 days before Dasara," said KEA Chairman

Mirle Srinivasagowda, KEA Chairman

Mirle Srinivasagowda.

"Over 32 stalls of the Government are being readied and the expo will open on Sept. 26. There will be over 250 stalls and food courts. All the minor works and occupancy by the vendors will be completed by Oct. 1," he said.

This year, Mysuru District Minister S.T. Somashekar said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has issued instructions to the officials at the Dasara High Power Committee meeting to ensure that the Dasara exhibition is opened 15 days before the start of the festival.

"We have told the vendors and all the Government Departments to set up the stalls and they are racing against time to complete the task. "Dasara exhibition could not be held during 2020 and 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The last Dasara exhibition was held in 2019. This year, we will make up for the two-year loss," he added.

Rs. 8.09 crore tender

Bengaluru-based Fun World was the sole bidder for the exhibition contract and as such, the contract has been handed over to Rs. 8.09 crore. "Adults will be charged at Rs. 30 per person and children will be charged Rs. 20 and information about the exhibition can be obtained through an exclusive app. Video-mapping facility has been provided and the entire campus has been brought under a digital umbrella," Srinivasagowda added.

As an added attraction, Cauvery Gallery has been inaugurated at the Exhibition premises and a separate section for sand art has been made. Cultural programmes will be held in two stages and local artistes will be given preference.

"The commercial stalls will feature a variety of items ranging from pottery and handicrafts to products of household necessities. Many cooperative weaving societies from Tamil Nadu, Jammu and Kashmir, Rajasthan, Himachal Pradesh and Bengal will sell their products including designer wear. A wide range of consumer items will also be available. Over 40 to 50 kiosks will be set up exclusively for food and snacks. The entertainment section will offer thrill rides," he added.

There are over 2,135 electric poles along the road and 4,818 LED bulbs have to be fixed. As part of the project, the many fallen streetlights too have to be restored. "Separate tenders will be called to replace the defunct bulbs in the coming days and the pitch-dark stretch will see lights only after Dasara.

As per the plans, the MCC and MUDA have come to an understanding that the MUDA will pay the MCC Rs. 12 crore to replace the bulbs, rodent-eaten wires and other cabling works. After the lights are restored, the MCC will maintain the light poles and also pay the electricity bills. The MUDA has already readied a cheque of Rs. 6 crore.

Message of Kannada on Yuva Sambhrama stage

'Kannada not just a language but a feeling and a way of life'

Actress Harshika Poonacha dancing to Kodava Vaalaga accompanied by Actor-Director Nagendra Prasad at Yuva Sambhrama event at Open Air Theatre in Manasagangothri last evening. Picture right shows students of various colleges performing on the occasion.

Mysuru, Sept. 21 (MK&BCT)- The usually busy Manasagangothri Road in the University of Mysore campus gets busier after 4 pm these days as hundreds of youths pour into the Open Air Theatre where Yuva Sambhrama is being held as a prelude for Yuva Dasara.

While youths on stage forget themselves while performing foot-tapping music, the crowd in front of the stage too are mesmerised by the performances. Over the last couple of days, the place is becoming a popular joint for youngsters to hang around after a gap of two years and they are leaving no opportunity in making its maximum use.

Last evening, there were many stellar performances from various educational institutions where the message of Kannada being a feeling or a way of life and not just a language was spread by the performers, holding the Kannada flag. The performance by the students of DPBS Government PU College, Periyapatna, extolling the Kannada language, attracted many and even the audience sang and danced.

Likewise, students of the JSS Academy of Higher Education and Research, dressed as peacocks, performed to Kannada tunes while the students of Maharaja's PU College highlighted the contribution of Vijayanagar rulers, Madakari Nayaka and Onake Obavva who sacrificed so that the Kannada language and culture can thrive.

Students of Bettadapura Government Junior College, Maddur Government Women's College also performed on Kannada themes and also highlighted how the farmers of Karnataka form a backbone of the State and country. Through their impressive performances, they conveyed the message of urgently saving the lives of farmers who are being driven to commit suicide by banks and money lenders.

Performers from JSS College Ooty Road and Hardwicke Independent PU College commemorated the sacrifices made by the country's soldiers. While students of CFTRI School performed an adventurous song, students of Mathrumandali College and Cauvery Institute of Health Sciences brought the memories of Kittur Rani Chennamma, Dr. Vishnuvardhan and Dr. Puneeth Rajkumar.

Students from Badariprasadji PU College, Siddarthanagar, performed clips from Ramayana while students of Gundlupet Government First Grade College threw light on the practices followed in border areas. Performers from Holenarasipur Paduvalahippe Sri H.D. Deve Gowda First Grade College enacted Krishna Leela on stage.

The main attraction of the evening was actress Harshika Poonacha who danced to Kodava Vaalaga. Actor-Director Nagendra Prasad accompanied her on stage. Another dancer was Dance Director Kulbhushan who performed for a Puneeth Rajkumar movie song.

Gandhi Shilp Bazaar, a must-visit for shoppers

The handicrafts exhibition — Gandhi Shilp Bazaar 2022 — organised by the Office of the Development Commissioner (Handicrafts), Ministry of Textiles, Government of India and JSS Mahavidyapeetha at JSS Mysore Urban Haat, Hebbal Ring Road, Mysuru, is a must-visit for Dasara shoppers.

Inaugurated on Sept. 16, this expo provides opportunities for direct marketing avenues for artisans and consumers.

Artisans, both men and women, from different parts of the country have put up the stalls of their own handmade products including silk work, woodcraft, jute work, silver art, terracotta, wood inlay, stone work, clothes and several such items.

When Dasara is round the corner, this event is a great opportunity for artisans from all over the country for a direct marketing linkage between craftsmen and the art-loving citizens. Such events help the artisans to know the real need of the people and provide items based on their market requirement.

Those interested can visit the expo everyday including Sundays from 10.30 am to 9 pm till Sept.25.

Electronic manufacturer Jamal from Uttarakhand said, "it is my first visit to take part in this bazaar. I am here to display and sell my products and my main goal is to introduce my products to customers in Mysuru and surrounding places."

The artisans here are not only from Karnataka. They are from various States and cities to showcase their aesthetic works and traditional heritage of arts and crafts.

The major crafts on display are wood crafts, stone carvings, bronze icons, jewelleries, carpets, wooden items, terracotta, leather craft, paintings, imitation jewellery, batik from different States of India (Andhra Pradesh, Karnataka, Kerala, Tamil Nadu and Puduchery).

Artistic leather chappals, stuffed toys, chanderi sarees, patola sarees, silver filigree, chittalpatti, cane and bamboo, dry flowers, chicken embroidery, cut glass jewellery, artistic metal works, stone artware, printed textiles, phulkari, B-lac bangles are also available.

All the stalls for these artisans are provided free of cost while their traveling expenses, dearness allowance and freight charges are paid by the Office of the Development Commissioner (Handicrafts) as per norms. "I am really happy and thankful to our Government for organising such events. It paves the way for direct contact with customers from different places," said Burhan and added that he was here to display Kashmiri carpet which work he is doing for more than ten years.

"It is the best opportunity for art-loving people in Mysuru to have a glance of various national crafts on display. I bought a necklace, it is really cheap and very nice," said Meira, a visitor and requested the citizens to visit this expo and encourage the craftsmen who are doing their bit to preserve our national art and crafts.

Mahesh, one of the artisans, said, he has different kinds of jewelleries in his stall for sale and most of them were handmade necklace, bracelet and so on. "I am thankful to my Government for supporting us," he added.

Prakash, who has a stall selling ladies' dresses, said: "I am a tailor and all these clothes are readied by me and my wife. I think this is the best opportunity to showcase my skills."

Maravana, the embroiderer, said, "I am really happy to be here and appreciate the organisers for providing us this opportunity."

WORD OF THE DAY

Substantive

Pronunciation: SUB-stun-tiv.
Meaning: Substantive means "important, real, or meaningful." It can also be used to describe something, such as an argument, that is supported by facts or logic.
Origin: Substantive and substantial are quite a pair: the two have multiple similar meanings, can both ultimately be traced back to the same Latin root (the verb substare, whose figurative meaning is best understood as "to stand firm" or "to hold out"), and both made their first appearance in English sometime in the 14th century. But though they can be used interchangeably in some contexts (one can make "substantive progress" or "substantial progress," for example), we usually use substantial to describe things that are large in size, scope, or extent (example, "a substantial amount," "substantial increase"), while substantive is more likely to be used as a synonym of significant, real, or important.
Example: "Box of Rain adopts a long view of the Deadhead scene, from its mid-'80s heyday before the hit 'Touch of Grey' ended the halcyon days of the band's below-the-radar status, to the post-Garcia era that continues today. That span defines the film's goal, which is to explain how a scene often dismissed as nothing more than rock 'n' roll hedonism actually offered participants something far more substantive, positive and life-affirming." — Nicholas G. Meriwether

THE ODD WORD

Saltigrade

Progressing by leaps.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Safe pair of hands

Meaning: A reliable, if somewhat dull, person who can be entrusted not to make a mistake with a task.
Origin: Applied to politicians or diplomats who were given sensitive work that required careful handling. The earliest references to the phrase link it to the public school sports of cricket and rugby. It's easy to see how it migrated from there to the public school dominated world of Victorian UK politics. These two authors included the term in tutorials on sport: James Pycroft The Cricket Field, 1851: "The safest pair of hands in England". W. J. A. Davies How to play Rugby Football, 1933: "A safe pair of hands is of paramount importance."
